Sun and Shade Growing Tips

Growing Tips · https://www.agardenpatch.com/customer-center/sun-and-shade-growing-tips/

Sun Loving Plants

An area exposed to full or near-full sunlight soil is ideal. Leafy and root vegetables prefer full sun, but will still grow okay in partial shade. Any site can become a highly productive garden; just choose the right plants for your spot. Since plants grown in the Garden Patch are healthier, you can even cheat it a little.

Vine crops such as watermelons, cantaloupes, winter squash and cucumbers require large amounts of space. Putting your GrowBox™ near a fence or trellis may allow for the growing vine.

Here's a list of some sun loving plants:

- Beans
- Broccoli
- Cantaloupes
- Cauliflower
- Cucumbers
- Eggplant
- Okra
- Onions
- Peas
- Peppers
- Potatoes
- Pumpkin
- Squash
- Tomatoes

- Watermelon

Plants Okay With Shade

If your garden is not in an area receiving full or near-full sunlight, try leafy crops such as leaf lettuce, mustard, and parsley.

- Beets
- Brussels Sprouts
- Cabbage
- Carrots
- Collards
- Kale
- Lettuce
- Mustard
- Parsley
- Radish
- Spinach
- Turnips
- Herbs
- Flowers
- Ferns